Regarding the guidelines:

Some folks - like me - cannot pee in certain situations. Asking me to pee in the presence of others is just not gonna happen. I am a paruretic and SUFFER the social phobia of being "pee shy".

If you can allow other body tissues to pass as a test for whatever you are testing for - great. But to say that because I can't pee I am refusing a test - that's like saying someone without legs isn't walking cuz they don't want to. Trust me - this condition is hard to live with. With the added pressure of your proposed regulations - those like me will likely be moved - unfairly - out of the federal workforce for a medical condition they - we - cannot control.

Please consider the plight of the pee shy and make sure your legislation is reasonable for the millions (yes millions) that have this condition.

Michael
